

Services to the healthcare sector

Professionals in the healthcare fields require specialist accounting and financial advice. The unique requirements of this sector and its constantly changing nature make it vital to have advisers who can keep pace.

PKF has an outstanding track record of acting for the healthcare profession. Today we are acknowledged experts in the field. We provide accounting, business and financial advice to GPs, consultants and dentists, and consultancy services to PCOs and NHS trusts. We are also appointed tax advisers to BMA members.

Each of our offices has a specialist partner heading up a Healthcare Services team, which comprises experts from a range of disciplines to meet your various requirements. Our internal training programme and technical support keeps teams up to date with developments in accounting, tax and specific healthcare issues.

All inclusive

You need an efficient, accurate service from your accountants. We ensure that your accounts, taxation returns and GPs' certificates of superannuable profit are all prepared in good time. Our accounts also provide you with detailed analysis of your income and expenditure, superannuable provisions, statistical comparisons to other practices and income tax projections.

Financial health

Tax is one of the biggest issues for both business and personal finance. We can advise on all aspects of income tax, capital gains tax and inheritance tax, ensuring all transactions are carried out tax efficiently and saving money for both you and your practice.

Our VAT specialists can offer invaluable assistance in the areas of surgery development and dispensing, and will also guide you through the complex and evolving VAT regime.

Investing in your future

Doctors and dentists in the NHS have excellent opportunities for enhanced pension provision. To make the most of these opportunities, you need advice that is tailored to you. PKF Financial Planning Ltd offers independent advice on all aspects of pension planning, including pension schemes for your staff.

A special business

When it comes to financial advice, partnerships have distinctive requirements. One common issue is the necessary capital, and whether this is best funded by the partners or by bank borrowing. In addition to such advice, we can also guide partnerships through mergers or de-mergers and advise on the accounting, taxation and management implications of partner changes.

Growth in your business, or changes in the delivery of healthcare, may bring about the need for a business plan. We can help you to create this, setting out proposals, targets, financial forecasts and budgets as well as assisting you in monitoring those budgets.

Developing a new surgery is a major investment. Here we provide financial guidance and feasibility reports on proposed developments. We can help you to decide whether to lease or buy, as well as offering expert assistance on issues such as funding.

I am most impressed by the pro-active approach by PKF in providing seminars, newsletters and booklets for clients...PKF gives a high level of service, while maintaining an approachable friendly attitude.
